

SCHC Elevator Pitch

To management level/non members:

Are you familiar with the SCHC; the Society for Chemical Hazard Communication? I have been a member of the SCHC since the late 80's. It has been the best resource for me as a Hazard Communicator (and now as a Manager). No question, the SCHC is the premier domestic organization for hazard classifiers for in manufacturing and supplying, use and transport; labelers and data sheet preparers offering professional development and networking opportunities in many areas of product stewardship. SCHC offers outstanding technical webinars, professional development courses and semi-annual conferences in globally regulated areas such as SDS and label authoring, chemical control management and hazardous materials transportation. With a broad network of HazCom professionals and renowned Industry consultants the SCHC maintains an active alliance with OSHA and this has proven to be a real asset to our members. With low annual membership and reasonably priced conferences and training; it is the truly a wonderful resource. The SCHC website also has some really valuable free resources like the GHS information sheets. You should check out our organization at SCHC.org

To hazard communicators with their management:

Hey Beth, I have identified a resource that I think will be a big help to me in our Hazard Communication efforts. Are you familiar with the Society for Chemical Hazard Communication?

I was visiting with the person responsible for Hazard Communication at _____ and they told me about a really great resource for Hazard Communicators and HazCom Managers. They said it is the best domestic organization for hazard classifiers, labelers and data sheet preparers as well as transportation folks. They offer professional development and networking opportunities in many areas of product stewardship. They have technical webinars, professional development courses and semi-annual conferences in globally regulated areas such as SDS and label authoring, chemical control management and hazardous materials transportation. It offers access to a broad network of HazCom professionals and Industry consultants and they maintain a very active alliance with OSHA. You might want to check them out at SCHC.org.....the annual membership is very reasonable and the conferences and training are very competitively priced. I would like to join so that we can determine how it will help me and our Hazard Communication efforts. May I have your approval?
