Advanced Leadership Skills for Hazard Communication

Monday, April 23, 2018
Orlando, Florida

Workshop Description and Objectives

This workshop is designed to advance Hazard Communication leadership skills development and their practical application. Team leaders are frequently tasked with assessing problems and opportunities, defining needs and planning and implementing solutions. Leaders are often called upon to coach and mentor team members. Effective leaders are able to evaluate their performance and to determine how others view their performance. This workshop will focus on effective meetings, project planning and management, coaching and mentoring and self-assessment. Good leaders are always in demand and this workshop through lecture, discussion and interactive exercises will help provide participants with the skills critical to optimizing their leadership effectiveness – specifically in Hazard Communication, but also in the broader context of Product Stewardship.

The SCHC seminar Leadership and Teamwork for Hazard Communication is a recommended prerequisite for this workshop but it is not a requirement.

Intended Audience

Hazard communication professionals looking to strengthen their leadership, teamwork and organizational alignment skills.

Workshop Fee: $275 / members $365 / non-members
